Carden Hall, Cheshire

Stone Type: Marble

Stirling Stone carried out the complete design, supply and installation of the polished marble cantilevered staircase in the main entrance hall of this prestigious house, a brand new private residence in the Cheshire countryside.

Defying gravity, these unique masonry staircases require careful design along with strict quality control during the manufacturing process and installation on site.

Attention to detail is critical during the installation of each step, which is built into the side wall and 'pen checked' together to enable the whole structure to appear to float in mid air.
